The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless - Claim 1 and 2 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102b as being anticipated by anticipated by Ikeda. Ikeda, figure 14b, teaches a piezoelectric oscillator comprising a résumé err package #18, a semi conductor device #19 fixed on to a rear surface of the resin later package and having a built in oscillating circuit a lead portion of a lead frame fixed onto the rear surface of the resin later package #21 in the résumé your package and a semi conductor device being resin molded #22 except in outer lead portion of the lead frame #20.

Claim 1,2 and 4-8 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102b as being anticipated by Japan (441). Applicants attention is directed to figures 1-5 8 and 9 which clearly show all the claim structure. Note that this rejection was previously pointed out in an international search report.

Claim 1,2,4,5,7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102b as being anticipated by Japan (104). please note figures 1 and 3-5 which show all the claim structure. It is noted that this grounds for rejection was also the subject of a previous international search report. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2834

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan (441) in view of Hatanaka. Japan (441) teaches all the claim structure but does not use a metal cover which is electrically connected to the lead frame. Hatanaka provides such a structure for both mechanical protection and electric shielding of the piezoelectric element. Thus, for at least this reason it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a metal cover #8((figure 5) electrically coupled to the lead frame of Japan (441).

Ffurther cited of interest are Oka((figure1,4-6,8,10,13,14,19 and 20), Long(figure 1A and 11), Rubach(figure 5-7), Nakatani(figure 5), Kondo, Kageyama(figure 13 and 14) and Koyama(figure 23).
